Print List Of Files And Their Contents Software Description: Simple and intuitive UI The interface is composed of two separate panels, used for file/folder input and several functions that will help with the overall operation. At the bottom of the UI, you can notice the output options and the content and filename options. Fuse multiple files in a single one The application purpose is to take all the files you have loaded in and create a new one containing all their details and contents to print them on a single page. After the contents were exported to one of the supported formats, you can simply take the files and send them to the printer. Content and filename options The final results are going to be heavily influenced by what boxed are you checking before the merging. Depending on what are you picking the final result can display the minimum of detail or a larger amount of information. For example, if the first two checkboxes are selected, the final document will list the file's name and all its contents along with its system path. Supports four file formats The application lets you choose your file output from the following formats: simple TXT, MS word files, RTF and MS Excel file.

Depending on the content and the printing method, one of these extensions should cover all needs. Also, there is a "Filter" field that can be used to block some format's visibility or make it see all file formats, without restrictions.
