I know for me, I always have felt this way. Loneliness is a state of being where I am, and a feeling that I am apart, that I am a part of me, and a part of others, and yet I am alone. Just because I have friends, it does not mean I am not alone. When I am reading about other people's experiences, I always find myself feeling sad. Why do we feel this way? We all have friends, it is a part of our lives, we have had friends all our lives. It is natural to have friends. So then why do we still feel this way? We have a great relationship with our friends, they care for us, we care for them. We are able to call them for a chat or a catch-up, so why do we feel this
