Rancho Encinitas Rancho Encinitas was a Mexican land grant in present-day San Diego County, California given in 1844 by Governor Manuel Micheltorena to Lieutenant Colonel John Gregory of the U.S. Army. The grant was bounded on the north by the Mission San Diego de Alcalá, and was named after the Encinitas River that runs through it. The Encinitas River is now called the San Diego River and is navigable. Gregory sold the grant in 1846 to Diego Ruiz, nephew of José María Echeandía, former alcalde of Mission San Diego, who was the grantee of Rancho Cuyamaca. History The rancho was
