Find out more about what's new in the latest version: The program needs to get an entry in the Windows registry. This can be accomplished by running it manually via the Command Prompt or by using a Windows installer. If you are currently logged in as an administrator, there is no need to log out before running the installer. In addition, you will need to give write permission to the registry to the application. To do so, press the Yes button when prompted. If you need to make a logout, you need to first close all running programs, then log out of the Windows session, and then log back in to make the changes take effect. Installation Press Win+R (Windows key + R key) and type regedit to open the Registry Editor. Go to the following location:
