We are also using photos in our physical stores with a screen size of 6.5 x 9.5. Gentics Xamarin 9.12 allows us to run a native Android application with huge density. (If possible for you, use 3206,.) But the Graphic designer's software solidworks will not render a scene using this resolution. However this is causing a bit of a problem for our graphic designer. The designer in Solidworks cannot see their pictures being displayed and puts the resolution over 250px X 450px. The problem here is that the older image quality that we had to create with the former resolution is much more crisp and easier to edit. We do not want to recreate these pictures when the resolution is too small for the designer's current software. We are currently working with the Mobile App developer to see if there is a way that we can make the android apps display better. However at this point it is being streamed from server as a.mp4 file to the App. But if we could make the file size of the image do the same job it would save a considerable amount of space in the App.
